Orange High School Students Visit the Salem Nuclear Plant

Submitted by Dr. Tina Powell, Director Mathematics and Science

On May 5, eleven students from Orange High School (pictured left) joined students from the Burlington County Institute of Technology (BCIT) to participate in an immersive field experience at PSEG's Salem Nuclear Power Plant in Lower Alloways Creek Township, Salem County, New Jersey. The power plant is home to three of NJ's four nuclear reactors and is the second largest nuclear generating facility in the United States.

The plant's education liaison, Theresa Widget, provided students with an initial orientation; explaining the world's primary sources of energy, the need for multiple and varied energy sources, and how PSE&G's power plant provides half the electricity generation for New Jersey through a 'clean', non-carbon-producing source.

Pictures: Scenes from visit to the Salem Nuclear Plant.

During lunch, the students engaged in Q&A with Judy Rodriguez, a Nuclear Engineer who assists in regulating conditions within the reactors and her colleague, Andrew Preston, a Mechanical Engineer who uses stress testing to ensure the stability of the reactors' intricate network of pipes. Both engineers shared their college experiences, described a typical day at work, and provided students with advice on how STEM majors can better manage the high demands of their engineering coursework. Afterwards, students spent some time in the control room simulator, exploring the mechanisms in place that control the nuclear reactors.

Overall, it was a great tour. Students indicated that the most compelling aspects of this experience included the lessons they learned from the engineers, the safety measures that the power plant employs to control radioactive waste and catastrophic events, and their improved understandings of nuclear fission.

This experience was made possible by Rowan College at Burlington County's Workforce Development Institute, the American Association of Blacks in Energy, and Larry Glover, founder of the Glover Group.

Dr. Tina Powell, Director of Mathematics and Science, Jason Belton, Principal of Orange High School, and Shafeek Mohammed, Supervisor of Science, 8-12, accompanied students.

Project Prom at Orange High School

Submitted by Ms. Dana Gaines, School Social Worker, Orange High School

Prom is right around the corner, on May 25, and Orange High School students are so excited! In order to assist those interested with their prom expenses, the Ladies In Training (LIT) girls group collaborated with SPACE (OHS school based counseling program from Family Connections) to give away prom dresses to attendees. The event was called Project Prom and was held on April 11 and April 13. Over 45 students visited the "LIT closet" to try on and gowns.

The seed for this project was planted when Ms. Cooke, Forest Street School principal, reached out to Ms. Dana Jones, Orange High School Social Worker and Advisor for LIT, to donate prom dresses. That donation snowballed into a full-blown dress drive sponsored by Forest Street School. Kudos to Forest Street for collecting and donating over 75 dresses to the LIT Project Prom!

Dresses were also donated from the Family Assistance Resource Center (FARC) as well as OHS staff. A good time was had for all, as LIT girls set up an intimate boutique environment complete with greeters, personal stylists and homemade cupcakes for all participants.

Autism Awareness Month at Lincoln Avenue School

Submitted by Ms. Fay Coward, Kindergarten teacher, Lincoln Avenue School

Students and staff wore blue on Friday, April 28, to raise funds for the district's Autism program. Lincoln Avenue School also participated in an "April is Autism Awareness Month" wall. Students and staff decorated a ribbon and added it to the wall, showing their love and support for this cause. Students in Ms. Coward's class also wrote about what they learned about Autism. Their work was displayed next to the wall. Shine your blue!

The Easter Bunny Visits Lincoln Avenue School

Submitted by Ms. Fay Coward, Kindergarten teacher, Lincoln Avenue School

This year Lincoln Avenue's kindergarten had a big surprise! Not only did the Easter bunny pop up from its hole, the student counsel donated over 500 eggs, filled with treats for the students! They are thanked for their donation, along with Ms. Tamika Jones and Lincoln Avenue School families!

There were about 1000 eggs for our students to hunt! They also played games like "Egg on the Spoon!" Even the volunteer reader, Ms. Stephanie, got involved in the egg race! Everyone had a great time!

FAME (Families and Math Education)

Submitted by Julia Jasper, Preschool Coach, Preschool Master Teacher

The Early Childhood Department hosted its third annual FAME (Families and Math Education) event at Scholars Academy on May 4, 2017. Preschool students, their siblings and parents were able to experience nine different hands-on math games and learning activities. The goal of the program is to create an environment in which parents and children can enjoy math learning together. In addition, parents were provided with tips about how to continue math education at home using everyday objects and experiences.

A record number of 161 participants and 30 volunteers attended FAME this year! The Early Childhood Department happily gave away 136 children's books with a math focus and four raffle prizes consisting of math games. In addition, they had the unexpected opportunity to share at least 15 bags of books and toys with the families in attendance! This was the result of the Ben Samuels Children's Center's Green Community Day Project, which came about from collaboration between Beth Pulaski, Consultant with Laurus Grant Writing and Evaluation Services, and the District Community Schools and the 21st Century Program. Thanks to Barry Devone, Community Engagement Officer for the district, for facilitating the contributions.

Women of Worth Celebration

Submitted by Ms. Karen Machuca, Principal Scholars Academy

A Woman of Worth Celebration was held at Scholars Academy on May 11, to celebrate the women in the lives of the Preschool students. Mothers, grandmothers, and aunts were treated to breakfast, with freshly made waffles and assorted treats, while networking with other women. They had the opportunity to sit for a moment and enjoy some quiet time. The Preschool students made bead necklaces and bracelets as a special gift for the women to take home and wear!

Business Luncheon for Cos Crew Mentoring Group

Submitted by Mr. Christopher Cosmillo, Art Instructor and Mentor, Orange High School

On May 3, Cos Crew Mentorship group, run by Mr. Christopher Cosmillo, participated in a women's business luncheon at the Valley Arts Co-Op building. During this time, students met with local business owners and representatives Rosanna Imbriano and Holly Kaplansky from the New Jersey Association of Women Business Owners. Students discussed the importance of women in business and the various struggles they encounter throughout their careers. Students also used the time to network and establish internships. "This event was hugely successful and will hopefully be a catalyst to similar events in the future," said Mr. Cosmillo. He also gave a special thanks to Candace Goldstein, Valley Arts, for hosting the event, as well as teachers Mr. Milnes and Ms. Irving for chaperoning.

Mock Trial at Orange Preparatory Academy

On May 5, Orange Preparatory Academy was again a participant in the annual Essex Vicinage Law Day Program's mock trial. The theme for this year's trial was "The 14th Amendment: Transforming American Democracy." The theme provided an opportunity for students to study the various ways that the Fourteenth Amendment has reshaped American law and society. The participants, Grade 8 students, were given a fact pattern and witness statements in advance of the trial. They then prepared opening statements, direct and cross examination of each of the witnesses, and closing remarks.

This year's case was Andrews v. Springdell and involved a high school junior, Lynn Andrews, who sought to join the boys' soccer team at Lincoln High School, in Springdell, NJ, as a transfer student. She was denied joining, but instead was given options to join the newly elevated girls' club soccer team or switch to playing on the all-state girls field hockey team. The defense argued that Lynn's constitutional rights to "equal protection of the laws" were being denied along with Title IX infractions of the Civil Rights Act.

The Honorable Dennis F. Carey, a Superior Court judge from Essex County, presided over the trial. Participating in the case were 8th grade students Desirea Thompson, Courtnee Simpson, Rose Francois and Khadijah Moore, as attorneys for the defendant and the plaintiff. They were assisted at the trial by attorneys Ms. Kimberely Kearns and Mr. Michael Vincenti. The attorneys met with the students for the first time on the day of the trial and reviewed the case proceedings. The witnesses for the plaintiff were Angeli Singh and Waye Comick; witnesses for the defense were Tairi Johnson and Asianna Kennedy. After the testimony concluded, attorneys gave closing statements, the jury was instructed by the judge and deliberated, reaching a decision favorable to the defendant, that since there is an existing girls soccer team, Lynn Andrews was denied her petition to join the boys' soccer team.

The students were commended for their preparation of the trial proceedings and attention during the trial. Ms. Kathleen Gengaro, social studies teacher, who helped to facilitate the event, was pleased with the outcome. The annual mock trial provides a means to educate students about the laws and system of government and how they are applicable in their lives.

I Care Conference at Career and Innovation Academy of Orange

On April 6, the Career and Innovation Academy of Orange united for a day of C.A.R.E. (Community/Citizenship, Apppearance/Attitude, Responsibility (fiscal) and Education/Employment). The event featured workshops on topics that help students navigate work and career life, including fiscal responsibilities, appearance, interaction with colleagues and employment discussions, followed by an afternoon of peer activities/mentoring with students from Orange High School and Park Avenue School.

The C.A.R.E. event included a series of interactive workshops, facilitated by:

Additionally, there was a special luncheon catered by Mr. Fortun, culinary teacher, and select students. Board of Education President Cristina Mateo offered face painting for the elementary students from Park Avenue School. There were lively discussions during the event. The Honorable Mayor Dwayne D. Warren and Councilmember-At-Large Adrienne Wooten also attended, networking with the students.

Sixth Annual Orange Dance Festival

Premier dance educators were present at the Orange Dance Conservatory's Sixth Annual Orange Dance Festival on April 30. Participants had the opportunity to take classes with top industry dance professionals from programs such as the Broadway Dance Center, the Alvin Ailey School, Dance Theater of Harlem, Peridance, So You Think You Can Dance, Ballet Hispanico and other schools and programs.

The event featured classes in Ballet, Tap, Jazz, Hip-Hop, West African, Flamenco, Contemporary, Horton, Jazz Funk, Improv, Afro-Fusion and Mock Dance Audition.

Notable instructors included Charles Smith, Jeremy McQueen, April Cook, Maleek Washington, Ashley Rich, Ronald Alexander, Joanna Numata, Wendy McKenzie, Dorrit Koppel, Keenan Cooks, Carlos Neto, Miles Keeney and Vivian Nixon. Ms. Deborah Rembert, Park Avenue School's dance instructor and director of the Orange Dance Conservatory, stated, "As usual, there is a fantastic line-up of dance instructors . . . offering workshops for children and adults." She indicated that two featured artists were surely known by students, Jayla Marie from the reality show, "The Rap Game" and King Jafi Rock. Several of Orange's dance students served as back-up dancers for Jayla. Also, students were awarded scholarships to well-known dance studios for their talents during live auditions.

Jayla Marie was the closing performer at the daylong event and was well received by adoring fans. She provided a lively end to the program. For more on the dance festival, see Essex News Daily at

Scholastic Blog Post Recaps Effective Reading Challenge

A Scholastic's blog post, edu@scholastic, authored by Director of English Language Arts, Ms. Karen Harris, shared a concise documentation of the genesis of the Orange Page Turners Reading Challenge, its goal of one million pages read by the entire Orange community, over a five-month period, and its success.

Ms. Harris opened with her challenge to get students to read independently and shared the importance of the program, the involvement of her partners and the impact on students.

“Over the last few months, I learned that my initial hunch was correct: that in order to get kids to read, they need to belong to a community of readers. By creating a shared goal across Orange, we were able to do just that.”

Top readers of the Orange Page Turners Reading Challenge will be announced at the Literacy Block Party on June 2, at Lincoln Avenue School. See flyer below.
